WAKE ISLAND

FIRST JAP CRUISER OF THE WAR SENT TO BOTTOM BY U. S. MARINE FIGHTING PLANE

Conception by the artist of the actual action depicted in the dramatic Paramount Picture... "Wake Island"

All the graphic realism of the historic action at Wake Island, during which the first Jap cruiser of the war is sunk by a Marine Grumman fighter, is captured by the artist. This vivid battle scene is one of many recreated in the authentic Paramount war drama—"Wake Island." Note turret with its three six-inch guns blown completely from its base.

WAKE ISLAND

JAP INVASION TROOPS MEET TERRIFIC SHELLFIRE OF HEROIC MARINE DEFENDERS

Helmeted Nipponese troops splash through sea from armored barges as they battle their way toward land. One of the hundreds of vividly realistic scenes recreated in Paramount's thrilling authentic motion picture drama "Wake Island."

WAKE ISLAND

GRUMMAN FIGHTING PLANE DELIVERS DEATH BLOW TO JAPANESE CRUISER

Conception by the artist of the actual action depicted in the dramatic Paramount Picture..."Wake Island"

Arthur Beaumont, noted artist, catches an historic moment as vividly portrayed in Paramount's stirring war drama—"Wake Island." It is the sinking of the first Japanese heavy warship of the war by one of the U. S. Marine Grumman fighters at Wake Island.